

MESSAGE ART STUDY – MODULE FOURTEEN

STEP ONE - Transcriptions of the video for the messages on UNCONDITIONAL LOVE

While painting this sketch on canvas, the persistent feeling of placing the four angel-type figures in just the right way was unusually strong and it took several attempts before it let go. Little did I know that had the arms of the figures not been placed the way they are, the divine symbol introduced in this painting's messages would not have been formed.

A few years ago, my daughter had a jeweller make a pendant of this symbol in sterling silver as my Christmas gift. I will always treasure it because it reminds me of what it means to accept what this symbol represents. I truly believe that once people are made aware of its profound meaning, they too will accept this unique symbol as their own.

The messages revealed in the five elements that make up this painting explain the impact your beliefs have on your soul-awakening process and describe the divine helpers you have while journeying on Earth.

Element One - The blue background symbolizes the spirit world and the green circle is for the planet Earth

While still in the spirit world, you had the opportunity to observe the evolution of mankind. One of the reasons you chose a physical experience was because of the global awakening that was about to take place on Earth. You realized that never in the history of mankind had there been as many people simultaneously seeking meaning and purpose. You were excited to begin your journey because you knew this unprecedented global awakening would help you to expedite your soul-awakening process.

Remember that the desire to know more about who you are or why you are here is God's way of letting you know there is pertinent information awaiting your discovery on the other side of the Illusion of Separation. Seeking answers to these or similar questions signifies that you, like many people from all parts of your world, have begun to dissipate this illusion.

Element Two - The purple circle represents humanity's Illusion of Separation

Your beliefs have a great impact on your soul-awakening process. You were not born with beliefs but rather acquired them by choosing, consciously or not, to think the same or similar thoughts repeatedly. Consider your repetitive thoughts as the building blocks that formed your beliefs. Because your repetitive thoughts often include those of other people that you, knowingly or not, accepted as your own, some of your beliefs may not be your own.

To verify if your beliefs are your own or someone else's, you need to know the origin of the repetitive thoughts that formed them. For example, do your beliefs about God originate from your own experiences or from what other people have told you about God? Are your beliefs about different religions, cultures and lifestyles your own or do they originate from someone else's repetitive thoughts? How about your beliefs concerning discord between countries or those about marriage and raising children?

A belief that is your own is one that was formed by the repetitive thoughts that originated from your personal experiences and not from those of other people. For instance, when you experienced unconditional love for the first time, you attained the knowingness of true love. Rather than simply accepting someone else's thoughts or beliefs about love, you attained the knowingness of it through a personal experience. This new knowingness then set in motion the repetitive thought process that formed the belief you have since had about love.

Your soul-awakening process, which only begins or proceeds when your beliefs allow it to, changes your words, thoughts and actions. Your beliefs play a major role in the experiences you create or do not create, which in turn determine the kind of influence you have on other people, including on their soul-awakening process. Whether you recognize it or not, your beliefs can impact, either positively or negatively, the global awakening presently taking place on Earth. For example, if you believe you are one with God and your fellow human beings, the experiences you create are based on love and reflect Oneness. You thereby influence others to begin dissipating their Illusion of Separation. However, if your beliefs originate from your own or someone else's fear-based thoughts, your experiences continue to reflect fear until you change them. Your fear-based beliefs then influence others to remain in the illusion. To change one or more of your beliefs, you need to replace the repetitive thoughts that formed them with different thoughts. In doing so, you allow yourself to create new experiences, which initiates the process of forming new beliefs. Your influence then has a positive impact on the whole of humanity's Illusion of Separation.

Element Three - The sparkles on the purple circle are symbolic of global awakening. Imagine that when you began your soul-awakening process, a bright light formed and pierced through humanity's Illusion of Separation. Now imagine the multitude of lights piercing through this illusion because of the many people on Earth who, like you, have begun their process of awakening. Imagine further how much more light will pierce through when all awakening people on your planet begin to share their experiences of recognizing their oneness with God and influencing others to do the same. The result will be that the amount of light shining through humanity's Illusion of Separation will outweigh the darkness caused by this illusion. When that happens, humanity's experiences of Oneness and love will surpass those of separation and fear.

Element Four - The four angel-type figures represent celestial helpers.

Your beliefs also allow or prevent you from experiencing a direct connection with your helpers from the spirit world. For instance, if you do not believe that there is more to life than what you can see, hear, touch, feel or smell, you may not recognize these divine helpers nor be able to connect with them directly.

All human beings have helpers in spirit form that remain by their sides for the duration of their journey on Earth. These divine helpers, often referred to as angels or guides, are souls who have agreed to assist humanity, from the spirit world. Their purpose is to guide the people on this planet to find their way back Home, back to the full awareness that they are eternally one with God. There is no place on Earth without divine assistance. Even though everyone has one or more divine helpers at their side, many people are not yet aware that their beliefs are preventing them from recognizing or connecting with their own.

Because of the Gift of Choice, the divine helpers can only make their presence known once the person they are assisting acknowledges them and requests their help or guidance. They also cannot make decisions for the people they help but can guide them to the choices that are best suited to their soul's plan.

There are countless ways for your divine helpers to communicate with you, such as through a dream, a vision, a premonition or by way of an intuitive nudge. Their guidance can also come through your thoughts while journaling or meditating and even by way of a feather or butterfly showing up in your path. No one way is better than any other, but a common way for divine helpers to connect with humans is through intuition. Consider your intuition to be a direct line between you and all there is on the other side of the Illusion of Separation, which is the spirit world. Connecting with your celestial helpers intuitively can compare to having a two-way radio with someone in a helicopter high up in the sky. Your helpers, like the person in the helicopter, can see what is behind you and what is coming in front of you, and can guide you throughout your journey on Earth, but only if you ask and trust them to do so. Your direct line to the spirit world may at first be full of static but the more you make use of your intuition, the easier and clearer your two-way communication becomes. As you begin to take advantage of your guides' help, you realize that they have always been ready, willing and able to assist you in all aspects of your life. You also realize that you can call them anyhow, anytime and anywhere. Sharing your experiences of how and when you connected with the spirit world is a great way to influence your fellow human beings to do the same.

Element Five - The arms of the figures form a unique and divine symbol

The arms of the four angel-type figures in the centre of this painting were purposely connected at the elbows to form the divine symbol for Oneness. Accepting this symbol as your own means that you acknowledge your Oneness with God and all that exists, and that you actively seek the wisdom and support of your celestial helpers. It also affirms the commitment to continue dissipating your Illusion of Separation and the devotion to serve humanity in its journey back Home. In doing so, you fulfill your part in accelerating the global awakening presently taking place on Earth. Without realizing it, you become like an angel on Earth, committing your thoughts, words and actions to Oneness and inspiring others around you to do the same. As the number of awakening people on your planet expands, the more the effects of separation, such as wars, neglect, judgment and fear, are replaced with the qualities of Oneness: compassion, acceptance, inclusion, harmony and peace. These God-like qualities have always been present in your world, but never has so much of humanity been expressing them simultaneously.
